

COVID-19

The coronavirus pandemic has affected everyone around the world causing a great deal of physical hardship and mental stress. This is particularly true for patients with bowel cancer and other serious illnesses. There are many regulations with restrictions varying from country to country on free movement, endoscopic/ radiological tests, surgery, and oncological treatment etc.

We hope that this website may help to allay some of your anxieties and provide some reassurance and reliable information on bowel cancer and related topics.

We are most grateful and humbled by the tremendous efforts of countless people working in various key areas providing essential supplies and services, in addition to our colleagues in all areas of healthcare, many of whom are putting themselves at significant risk. With all the international effort that is being put in, we are hopeful that this disease will soon be contained and eventually beaten. Meanwhile, wish you all the best.

The links below are some sites which provide some reliable and up to date information on COVID-19.

Guidelines and policy information

Please click on the links below:

For Patients:

For Professionals:

